26 case. Defendant claims the documents are protected by, inter alia, the official 27 information privilege and privacy privileges. This protective order is submitted pursuant 28

1 to a court order filed on January 11, 2018, in order to facilitate discovery while 2 protecting defendants' interests.

3 1. This protective order applies to the IA Memorandum and the attachments 4 identified as (1) the Executive Summary, and (2) the recorded interviews made during 5 the IA investigation.

6 2. Documents, records and information ("Confidential Material") disclosed
7 pursuant to this protective order, will be designated consecutively by page numbers

12 disseminated, shared, or provided to any other person or organization without the prior 13 written stipulation of defendant or authorization from the Court.

14 4. Disclosure to Plaintiff's designated expert requires Plaintiff to provide 15 defendants twenty-one (21) actual days of advanced notice in order for defendants to 16 draft an additional stipulated protective order, if required, or request a court order 17 further limiting disclosure.

18 5. The Confidential Material shall be used solely in connection with this 19 litigation and not for any other litigation or purpose. To the extent the Confidential
20 Material is disclosed at any deposition, it is subject to the terms of this protective order.

21 6. Each party shall take reasonable precaution to prevent the unauthorized or 22 inadvertent disclosure or any of the protected information or documents. Disclosure of 23 the Confidential Material pursuant to this protective order will not constitute a general 24 waiver by defendant(s) of the privileges asserted as to the Confidential Material or 25 related confidential material or records.

26 7. All documents subject to this Protective Order that are submitted to the 27 Court or used in any pretrial proceeding before this Court shall remain confidential and

9 make such amendments, modifications and additions to this Protective Order as it may 10 from time to time deem appropriate upon good cause shown and (b) to adjudicate any
